Original Poetry.

"KISHACOQUILLAS."

[In looking over some old manuscripts, relics of our school days at the "Old Seminary," we came across the following poem. We forward it for publication, feeling that it will be interesting to your numerous readers. To many it will, doubtless, possess a local interest. It was contributed to the Seminary "Journal" by a visitor, Rev. T. H. Beveridge, of Phil'a.]—K * * *

Shut in from the world in this beautiful valley,
From care, and from strife, and from sadness so free,
Round the temple of Science, each morning we rally,
And who so light-hearted, so happy as we,
Not happier they who bound o'er the billows,
Than we in this sweet vale—the "Kishacoquillas."

Here, under the training of good Mr. Mercer,
Our minds are expanding like flowers to the sun,
By the aid of his "half" (but by no means the worser,)
The work of instruction is skillfully done.
In all kinds of learning, they carefully drill us,
In this peaceful vale, the "Kishacoquillas."

Shut in on all sides by towering mountains,
Covered o'er with the maple, the oak and the pine;
With its clear running brooks and bright crystal fountains,
And all the rare beauties that 'round us combine,
With what bounding delight, with what joy it doth fill us,
To view this sweet valley—the "Kishacoquillas."

And at night when the sun has gone down in its glory,
And darkness is mantling the mountain and vale,
When the moon and the stars, take up their old story,
And silence, and slumber, around us prevail.
Then sweetly we sink to rest on our pillows,
In this mountain-girt valley—the "Kishacoquillas."

Select Miscellany.

A Thrilling Revolutionary Tale.

God is everywhere. His words are in the heart. He is on the battle field, and in our peaceful home. Praise his holy name.

It was in the wilds of Wissahicon, on the day of battle, as the noonday sun came through the thick clustered leaves, that two men met in deadly conflict near the reef which rose, like some primeval world, at least a thousand feet above the dark waters of the Wissahicon.

The man with dark brown face, grey eyes, flashing with deadly light, and a muscular form, clad in a blue frock of the Revolution, is a continental named Warren.

The other, with long, black hair drooping along his cadaverous face, is clad in the half military costume of a Tory refugee. This a murderer of Paoli, named Dehancy.

They met by accident; and how they fought; not with sword and rifle, but with long and deadly hunting knife they struggled, twining and twisting on the green sward.

At last the tory is down—down on the turf, with the knee of the continental on his breast—the upraised knife flashed death in his face.

"Quarter! I yield!" gasped the tory, as the knee was pressed on his breast.—"Spare me, I yield!"

"My brother," said the patriot, in a tone of deadly hate, "my brother cried for quarter on the night of Paoli, even as he clung to your knees you struck that knife into his heart. I will give you the quarter of Paoli."

And his hand was raised for the blow, and his teeth were clenched with deadly hate; he paused for a moment, and then pinioned the tory's arms, and with a rapid stride, dragged him to the verge of the rock, and held him, quivering, over the abyss.

"Mercy!" gasped the tory, turning ashy pale by turns, and that awful gulf yawned below. "Mercy! I have a wife and children at home; spare me."

The continental, with muscular strength gathered for the effort, shook the murderer once more over the abyss, and then hissed his bitter sneer in his face.

"My brother had a wife and two children. The morning after the night at Paoli, that wife was a widow—those children orphans! Ask mercy from them!"

The proposal made by the continental in mockery and bitter hate, was taken into serious earnest by the terror-stricken tory. He begged to be taken to the widow and her children, and to have the privilege of begging for his life. Another moment of serious thought, the patriotic soldier consented. He bound the tory's arms still tighter, placed him on his feet, and led him through the woods. A quiet cottage embossed among the trees, broke on their eyes They entered the cottage. There, beside the desolate hearth-stone, sat the widow and her children

She sat there, a matronly woman of about 28 years, with a face faded by care; a deep, dark eye, and long, black hair, hanging in a disheveled state about her shoulders. On one side was a dark-haired boy, of some six years, on the other side, a girl, one year younger, with light blue eyes. The Bible—an old and venerable volume—lay open upon the mother's knee. The pale-faced tory flung himself upon his knees, and confessed that he had butchered her husband on the night of Paoli, and begged his life at her hands.

"Spare me, for the sake of my wife and child."

He had expected this pitiful moan would touch the widow's heart; but not one relenting gleam softened her face.

"The Lord shall judge between us," she said, in a cold, icy tone, that froze the murderer's heart. "Look, the Bible is on my lap. I will close the volume, and let my little son place his finger, at random, upon a line, and by that you shall live or die"

This was a strange proposal, made in good faith, of a mild and dark superstition of olden times. For a moment the tory, pale as ashes, was wrapped in deep thought; then, in a faint voice, he signified his consent.

Raising her eyes to heaven, the mother prayed to the Great Father to direct the finger of her son. She closed the book; she handed it to the boy, whose cheek reddened with loathing as he gazed upon his father's murderer. He took the Bible and opened its holy pages at random, and placed his fingers upon a verse. There was a silence. The continental soldier, who had sworn to avenge his brother's death, stood with dilated eyes and parted lips. The culprit kneeling upon the floor, with a face like discolored clay, felt his heart leap into his throat.

Then, in a clear, bold voice, the widow read this line from the Old Testament.—It was short, yet terrible:

"That man shall surely die."

Look! the brother springs forward to plunge the knife into the murderer's heart, but the tory, pinioned as he is, clings to the widow's knees. He begs that one more trial may be made by the little girl, that child of five years old, with golden hair and laughing eyes.

The widow consents. There is an awful pause. With a smile in her eye, and without knowing what she was doing, the little girl opened the Bible as it lay on her mother's knee; she turned her face away, and placed her finger upon a line.

The awful silence grows deeper. The deep-drawn breath of the brother, and the broken gasp of the murderer alone, disturbed the stillness. The widow and dark haired boy are breathless. The little girl, as she caught a feeling of awe from those around her, stood breathless, her face turned aside, and her tiny fingers resting on the lines of life or death.

At length, gathering courage, the widow bent her eyes upon the page, and read. It was from the New Testament:

"Love your enemies."

Oh! book of terrible majesty, and childlike love of sublimity, that crushes the heart with rapture, it never shone more strongly than there in that lonely hut of Wissahicon, when it saw the murderer's heart.

Now look how wonderful are the ways of Heaven. That very night, as the widow sat by her fireside—sat there with a crushed heart and hot eyelids, thinking of her husband, who now lay on the drenched soil of Paoli—there was a tap at the door. She opened it, and that husband, living, though covered with wounds, was in her arms.

He had fallen at Paoli, but not in death. He was alive, and his wife panting on his bosom.

That night there was prayer and thanksgiving in the wood-embowered cottage of Wissahicon.

WOMEN AS TEACHERS.—In the field of teaching, women have been unusually successful, and have gradually superseded men in most of the schools. According to the last census, there were, in the United States, 150,241 teachers, of whom 100,000, or nearly two thirds, were women. In some particular States the proportion was greater. In Massachusetts there were six times as many women teachers as men. In Vermont the proportion was five to one, and in Iowa three to one. In the large cities the preponderance of women as teachers is most marked. In Chicago there are 20 men to 241 women; in Cincinnati 60 to 324; in Milwaukee 14 to 70; St. Louis has 18 to 166; San Fransisco 56 to 183. In the Eastern States the difference is increased: Boston has only 67 men to 567 woman among her teachers; Providence 9 to 142; Brooklyn 27 to 510; Philadelphia 84 to 1,217; Baltimore 42 to 325; and washington 4 to 56. There is no record of any Southern city, except Louisville, which has 29 men to 103 women. In New York, in 1860, three-fourths of the public school teachers were women. In 1866 there were only 178 men among more than 2,000 teachers, and the same relative numbers remain about the same.

THE RICHMOND BAR.—This year has been a long sling with the Richmond (Va.) bar. First went Judge William H. Lyons, Judge of the Husting's court, who never drank in public, but drank behind the door; then A. Judson Crane, a bar member—who practiced at both bars—who went about the streets with his pantaloons about his legs; then Thos. P. August, who drank in his room—a thousand drinks—and never asked a friend to drink with him. Then Littleton Tazewell, a man in whose veins ran the blood of a man whose name was a tower of strength; he died from drink; then J. Harmer Gilmer, jr., one of the best young men that it was ever our province to meet—he died from drink—too much whisky in his water; and now comes Eaton Nance, one of the best figurative lawyers that ever lived. He is dead! Died of too much drink! We could name dozens; but, O God, behold the power of drink!

FEAR OF ASSASSINATION.—During the latter years of his life, the famous London banker, Nathan Rothschild, was said to be always in fear of assassination.

"You must be a very happy man, Mr. Rothschild," said a guest, at one of the splendid banquets, for which his Piccadilly house was famous.

"Happy? Me happy!" he exclaimed. "What, happy! when, just as you are going to dine, you have a letter placed in your hands, saying—'If you do not send me £500, I will blow your brains out.' Me happy!"

One day two strangers were admitted into his private room at the bank. They were tall foreigners, with moustaches and beards, such as were not often seen in London thirty or forty years ago, and Rothschild, always timid, was frightened from the moment of their entrance.—He put his own interpretation upon the excited movements with which they fumbled about in their pockets, and before the expected pistols could be produced, he had thrown a great ledger in the direction of their heads, and brought in a bevy of clerks by his cries of "murder!" The strangers were pinioned, and then, after long questionings and explanations, it appeared they were wealthy bankers from the continent who, nervous in the presence of a banker so much more wealthy, had had some difficulty in finding the letters of introduction, which they were to present.

TO YOUNG MEN.—It should be the aim of young men to go into good society; we mean not the rich, nor the fashionable, but the society of the wise and good. Where you find men that know more than you do, and from whose conversation you can gather information, it is always safe to be found. It has broken down many a man by associating with the low and vulgar, where the ribald song was inculcated, and the indecent story to excite laughter, or influence the bad passions. Lord Clarendon attributed success and happiness in life to associating with persons more learned and virtuous than himself. If you wish to be wise and respected, if you desire happiness and not misery, we advise you to associate with the intelligent and good. Strive for excellence and strict integrity, and you will never be found in the sinks of pollution, or on the benches of revilers and gamblers. Once habituate yourself to a virtuous course, once secure a love for good society, and no punishment would be greater than by accident to be obliged for a half a day to associate with the low and vulgar.

UNION OBITUARY.—The N. Y. Evening Post gets hold of the following card by a bereaved husband, published in a German weekly paper. It is, probably, the most extraordinary composition of the kind on record: "To-day red, to-morrow dead; so it was with my wife, who, only eight years ago, was jumping over tables and chairs. Yesterday, all that was mortal of her was interred. She was, during her marriage, a lively woman, with whom one had to mind one's P's and Q's; therefore my sorrow may be imagined. So young, so festive, and already buried? What is human life? said I, repeatedly, to myself, all these days and again yesterday in the churchyard, when I paid the sexton, who will keep the grave in order. I shall certainly never find so cheerful a wife again!—Therefore my sorrow is just. I wish Heaven may keep every one from so sad a fate, and I thank the gardener for the floral decorations as also the choirmaster for the funeral chant, which went through and through me, but was very well performed."

DANGER FROM EATING NUTS.—Medical men advise that salt should be taken with nuts, especially when eaten at night.—"One time," says a writer, "when enjoying a visit from an Englishmen, hickory nuts were served in the evening, when my English friend called for salt, stating that he knew of a case of a woman eating heartily of nuts in the evening, who was taken violently ill. The celebrated Dr Abernethy was sent for, but it was after he had become too fond of his cups, and he was in no condition to go. He muttered 'salt, salt,' of which no notice was taken. Next morning he went to the place, and she was a corpse. He said that, had they given her salt, it would have relieved her; if they would allow him to make an examination, he would convince them. On opening the stomach, the nuts were found in a mass. He sprinkled salt on this, and immediately it dissolved. I have known of a sudden death myself which appeared to have been from the same cause. I generally eat salt with mine, and consider that it improves them."

A TEST APPLIED.—A correspondent of one of our religious exchanges says: I once heard a conversation between a church member and an infidel. After arguments were urged at some length on both sides, the infidel observed to his friend that he might as well drop the subject of conversation, "for," said he, "I do not believe a single word you say, and, more than this, I am satisfied that you do not really believe it yourself; for, to my certain knowledge, you have not given, for the last twenty years, as much for the spread of Christianity—such as building of churches, foreign and domestic missions—as your last Durham cow cost. Why, sir, if I believed one half of what you say you believe, I would make the church my rule for giving, and my farm the exception.

MEN WHO WIN WOMEN.—God has so made the sexes, that women, like children, cling to men; lean upon them as though they were superior in mind and body. They make them the suns of systems, and their children revolve around them. Men are gods, if they but knew it, and women burning incense at their shrines. Women, therefore, who have good minds and pure hearts, want men to lean upon. Think of their reverencing a drunkard, a liar, a fool, or a libertine. If a man would have a woman to do him homage, he must be manly in every sense; a true gentleman, not after the Chesterfield school, but polite because his heart is full of kindness to all; one who treats her with respect, even deference, because she is a woman; who never condescends to say silly things to her; who brings her up to his level, if his mind is above hers; who is never over anxious to do right; who has no time to be frivolous with her. Always dignified in speech and act; who never spends too much on her; never yields to temptation, even if she puts it in his way; ambitious to make his mark in the world, whether she encourages him or not; who is never familiar with her to the extent of being an adopted brother or cousin; who is not over careful about dress; always pleasant and considerate, but always keeping his place of the man, the head, and never losing it. Such deportment, with noble principles, good mind, energy and industry, will win any woman in the world who is worth winning.

A MOTHER'S LOVE.—Happy is he who knows his mother's love. What is so pure? The patriot expects fame, the friend sympathy, the lover pleasure.—Even religion, while she waters her faith with tears, looks forward to the best fruit of her labor, and her love. But maternal affection springs from the breast, uninvoked by touch of interest. Its objects are the weak and woeful. It haunts the cradle of infantile pain, or hovers near the couch of the faint and forsaken. Its sweetest smiles break through the clouds of misfortune, and its gentlest tone rises amid the signs of suffering and sorrow. It is a limpid and lovely flow of feeling, which gushes from the fountain-head of purity, and courses through the heart, through selfish designs and sordid passions, immingling and unsullied. Who is so firm? Time and misfortune, penury and persecution, hatred and infamy may roll their dark waves over it, and still it smiles, unchanged; or the potent allurements of fortune, opulence and pride, power and splendor may woo her, and yet she is unmoved—a mother loves, and loves forever.

LOVE WITH UMBRELLAS.—A certain dramatic writer being caught in a shower of rain, took refuge under the portico of a handsome dwelling in New York. As soon as he had taken the position, a window was opened, and a lovely female face appeared, which seemed to beam with sympathy and anxiety. She soon retired, and sent him an umbrella by a servant. He at once fell desperately in love, and thinking from her anxious looks that the feeling was reciprocated, he called on her in the morning, sent up card, and gave into her own hands a very costly umbrella he had purchased in place of the old shabby one he had borrowed, and wound up by making a profession of love. The young lady, without even noticing the exchange that had been made, perceiving how her act had been misinterpreted, naively replied: "I feel it to be my duty to undeceive you, sir. At the time of the shower I was anxiously expecting the arrival of a gentleman; who is, I confess, very dear to me, who wished to see me in private, and my only motive for sending you the umberella was to get you off the steps."

HEAVEN help the man who imagines he can dodge enemies by trying to please everybody. If such even succeed, we should be glad of it; not that we believe in a man going through the world trying to find beams to knock his head against, disputing every man's opinion, fighting and elbowing and crowding all who differ with him. That, again, is another extreme. Other people have a right to their opinion; so have you.—Don't fall into the error of supposing that they will respect you less for maintaining it, or respect you more for turning your coat every day to match the color of theirs. Wear your own colors, in spite of wind and we

Money---Pay Up!

We dislike to dun those of our subscribers who have not paid up their subscriptions, for money, but we must have what is over due, within a brief time, even if we shall be compelled to use extra efforts to secure its collection.—To each of you, the sums are small; to us, the aggregate is important.—Those who receive the paper by the carrier, in town, may call at the office and settle, or on either of the Editors. Those out of town, may send by mail, at our risk, if they make the Postmaster a witness of the fact that the money is enclosed. Will not each of our patrons make it a point to attend to this at once? We are obliged for your patronage, grateful to those who have already paid, and are confident that those who have not paid, will now remit at once. As soon as you finish reading this number, send us the amount due, and if you can spare it, the sum due for the next year. You can thus insure the getting of value for your money by making it easy for us to furnish you a live paper.

Are we to have a Financial Crisis?

It is with sorrow we learn that the Messrs. Valentine contemplate the closing of their furnace and forges, in a few months, or at the close of the present blast, unless something is done by Congress to increase the Tariff on iron. Under the present rates it is impossible for our manufacturers of iron to pay the revenue tax upon their iron, and at the same time compete with English manufactories and England's cheap labor. These works of the Messrs. Valentine, have been in operation for years. What they have done for the farmers and workingmen of Centre county by way of creating a home market, and giving employment to hundreds of workingmen, is well known to every citizen of Centre county. Should they be compelled to stop between this time and next spring what must be the effect upon those who have hitherto found employment and a livelihood for their families from this enterprising firm? Reader it is worth your serious consideration.

If the Messrs. Valentine should be compelled to stop their works for want of the proper Protection on the part of the Government, against English free trade, and England's cheap and half paid labor, is it not reasonable to suppose the Messrs. Curtin, of Eagle Works, Messrs. Linn & McCoy of the Milesburg works, as well as all the iron manufactories throughout our State and Nation, will, for the same reason, be compelled to close? Reader, farmers, mechanics, laboring men of the country, imagine for one moment, the idleness, crime, starvation, disaster, and unlimited ruin that such a state of things must bring upon individuals, and consequently upon society, composed and made up as it is, of individual members? What injures an individual must necessarily injure society to a greater or less extent, and what injures society, or a multiplicty of individuals, must necessarily injure the Government and the entire American Nation, or people. These are facts which cannot be gain-sayed or contradicted.

That money is very scarce, that we are trembling upon the virge of a financial crisis in comparison to which the panic of 1857 would sink into utter insignificance, is a fact fearfully apparent to every shrewd observer, aye, to every business man in the country. In view of these facts, and with financial ruin, and the suffering and starvation of the poor which must follow, staring us in the face, is it not remarkably strange that the leaders of the Democratic party and their duped and misguided followers will continue to hug to their bosoms the delusive phantom of English free trade? Is it not painfully humiliating to think that so many of our American fellow citizens prefer the wealth, happiness and prosperity of Monarchical England, to the happiness, prosperity, greatness and grandeur of our own beloved, free America? Is it not strange that our Irish fellow citizens, driven, in many instances, from their own beloved Ireland by English tyranny and oppression, upon arriving in this country, or just so soon as they are naturalized, attach themselves to the Democratic party, and vote with that party in favor of free trade and English prosperity against their own interests and the interests both of their native and adopted countries? What Irishman does not know, that a vote in favor of free trade is a vote in favor of England and against Ireland and the United States? What Irishman does not know that the strength of England is in her commerce, and that every vote he casts for free trade does but increase that strength, and bind tighter and tighter still, the chains of English tyranny around the wrists and ankles of his fellow countrymen who have not yet been so fortunate as to immigrate to glorious free America—the asylum of the oppressed of every nation under Heaven.

Herein is food for thought. Will the people of Pennsylvania stop and consider? Reader, we care not to which party you belong, if you are wise, if you hold your own interests, and the interests of your country paramount to that of any political party, you cannot hesitate long in choosing with which party you will act in the future; nor can you be long in determining which party has been true to you and the country, in the past. It cannot, it should not require a moment's reflection on your part to discover that the Democratic party is, and has been, a fraud and a cheat upon the country, the worst and most implacable enemy of American labor and laboring men; while it has been kept together and enabled to make some show of vigor and vitality by the millions of English gold placed at its disposal, for the purpose of furthering and strengthening her free trade interests.

Congress will assemble in a few weeks. It has a great work to do.—The "Gold Ring" must be broken up. If it can be done by legislation, in the name of all that is just and true, let us have the legislation. That "Ring" is composed of copperheads, Rebels and Englishmen. Suppose legislation does ruin them, who cares? They deserve no better fate. Better ruin a few scoundrels and gold-gamblers, than suffer ruin and disaster to come upon the country, and the farmers, and the workingmen thereof.

The Gold Ring broken down, and tariff rates increased so as to build up our own manufactories, and give employment to our own sturdy sons of toil—the balance of trade in favor of England, which must always be paid in gold, turned in our favor, and the adoption of a free Banking system, will, in our opinion, save the country from financial ruin and establish the character of the great Republican party as the double savior of the Nation.

We implore Congress to give us more money, and higher rates of tariff duty, that American labor may be abundantly protected against the cheap or pauper-labor of England.

Another Home-Thrust.

We have already published extracts from several Democratic papers, some of them located in, and others out of the State, showing a decided falling off from faith, and reflecting severely upon men and measures of the once "indomitable" party. The latest exhibition of this kind we find in the Elk county Gazette, which has been looked upon as the organ of the Democracy in that county, and up to this time, we believe, has been faithful to the policy of the party and to the trust reposed in it. But it can no longer run on the old track, having become utterly disgusted with many things, and particularly with that great gun of the party, William A. Wallace. It declares its independence in the following bold terms:

"We will support neither men nor measures simply because they bear the good old Democratic name; neither will we denounce measures which emanate from the Republican side, simply because of their origin. What we deem subversive of the interests of the people we will emphatically denounce; whatever would redound to their benefit we will heartily advocate. We admire and revere pure and real principles of Democracy, but we assert that under the teachings of the unscrupulous demagogues, led and ruled by W. A. Wallace and his clan, Pennsylvanians have imbibed anything but Democracy, and long as a party permits itself to be so ruled, it is worthy and deserving of nothing but defeat; and the Democratic party has fought its last battle, unless a change be speedily effected. It will be sufficient for us to know that this great-brained, able demagogue advises or originates any scheme, and we will oppose it; for we believe that Wallace and political villainy are synonymous terms.

"We will advocate a protective tariff; that home productions and native skill may find a worthy and full remuneration."

What It Wants.

Brick Pomeroy, universally known as a red-hot Democrat, the biggest liar, and the dirtiest blackguard in the newspaper world, is beginning to see things in a different light, to what he did during the war, when he, like other semi-rebel Democratic leaders, believed that the "Rebels, eight millions of people, could not be conquered." They were conquered, and are, we hope, fast becoming decent men and good citizens. There is some hope of "Brick" yet. We fear, however, his repentance, like that of the Democrat and Watchman has come too late. The Democratic party is dead, hopelessly dead. "Brick" speaks of it in this wise:

"The Democratic party of the United States is sadly in want.

Its wants are not numerous, but severe.

It wants brains.
It wants honesty,
It wants pluck.
It wants unity of action.
It wants integrity of purpose."

—Pomeroy knows whereof he affirms.

Rev J. H. Barnard preached in the Court House, for the Presbyterian congregation, on Sunday morning last to a crowded house. As usual he preached a magnificent sermon.

On next Friday evening he will lecture in the Court House, having been invited to do so, by the Young Men's Christian Association of this place.—We expect a rich treat. Every male and female should attend.

A Word to Republicans---The Campaign for 1870 Opened.

It was said by one of America's greatest Statesmen, that "Eternal vigilance is the price of Liberty." It was true when first uttered, and as truth cannot change, it is just as true and important now. Republicans of Centre, we gained a glorious victory in the State this fall, notwithstanding the apathy which existed in our ranks and the incessant rain on the day of election. We gained a glorious victory, securing the Governor for the next three years; a Supreme Judge for fifteen years, and the approval of the action of the last Legislature in its ratification of the 15th Amendment. We hear no more from copperhead journals in regard to submitting this question to the people.—They knew they were wrong before the election, but presuming upon the ignorance of the people, they hoped to succeed by low and vulgar appeals to their prejudices. These unprincipled leaders lost sight of the fact that our Free School system had been in operation for over thirty-five years—doing its work, and doing it well—and that the people really and truly possessed much more intelligence and practical good sense than did two-thirds of these semi-rebel Democratic leaders. Their appeal to prejudice, therefore, did no good, accomplished nothing, save and except the exposing to the intelligent public the depth of their own depravity and unpardonable ignorance.

Packer's $20,000,000 would not, could not save them, so that there is nothing left for them to do but to go into a kind of family quarrel—a Killkenny cat fight, where nothing was left of the combatants, but fir and tails strewed round promiscuously. May the end of these copperhead leaders be similar to the above named cats, is our sincere wish—politically, we mean of course.

Republicans, if you had all turned out to the election, as you should have done, we would have elected our county ticket, or nearly all of it. Over 300 Republican voters in the county did not vote. Jas. Coburn, Sam'l L. Barr and H. P. Cadwallader were only beaten by 225 votes.

This teaches us what can be done in the county, with organization, and earnest, energetic, united effort—Part of the mission of the REPUBLICAN is, to redeem Centre county from the mis-rule and corruption of the Court House Ring. We ask your assistance. We beg of you to organize now—to go to work now.

Let us open the campaign now for 1870. Remember the Democratic leaders are at work, doing all in their power to harmonize the discordant element in their party. Remember, and we know whereof we affirm, that if we are active, vigilent, indefatigable in our efforts, there are four hundred intelligent Democrats in the county who will attach themselves to our organization before the campaign of 1870 closes.

They are sick and tired of the Democratic party. They are convinced that it is wrong, and has been wrong for the last twenty years. They want to leave it. It is your duty to encourage these men—to extend to them the right hand of fellowship, and bid them welcome to all the rights and privileges of our victorious and liberty-loving organization. Will you do your duty in this matter?

We have a Congressman, a Senator, an Assemblyman, a County Commissioner, and other officers to elect next fall. The Congressional District is safe; but the Senatorial is represented at present by one Copperhead. He must come out of that, and a good honest Centre county man elected to fill that seat. Jacob G. Meyer will be up for re-election to the Legislature. He must be defeated. We must make a yearling of him. In a word, Centre county must be redeemed.

Republicans, you see the work that is before us; will you, this day, resolve to do it, and do it well. Circulate the REPUBLICAN, help the poor and the needy, be just and merciful to all with whom you come in contact, and our word for it, with one more effort—one strong, united effort—the county is ours and liberty's forever.

THE following anecdote is related of our present Secretary of War, Gen. Belknap. At the time the occurrence took place he was Col. of the 15th Regt. Iowa Volunteers:

"During the memoarble battle near Atlanta, on the 22nd of July, in which our troops fought first from one side of their fortifications and then on the other, a rebel officer at the head of his men, more daring than his followers, succeeded in getting closer up against the Union works, when a certain stalwart Colonel of Iowa Volunteers, begrimmed with the smoke of battle, leaped from the narrow parapet and extending his powerful arms grasped the gallant rebel by the collar, hoisted him bodily into the Union lines, and sent him to the rear a prisoner of war. The rebel, who turned out to be Col. Lampley, of the 44th Alabama, died a few weeks afterward of chagrin at the inglorious way he was captured. The captor was Col. Belknap, of the fifteenth Iowa, now Secretary of War."

THANKSGIVING.—Rev. James H. Mullen, Pastor of the M. E. Church in this place, will preach in the Court House on Thursday—Thanksgiving day. We have not been informed of the subject, but it will be appropriate to the occasion, and we assure our readers that it will be greatly to their advantage to attend. Rev. Mullen is one of the best and most earnest preachers in this country.

Grand Sentiments.

At a recent Commercial Convention held at Louisville, Ky., a committee was appointed to wait on President Grant to express to him the thanks of the Convention. General Walbridge, of New York, one of the truest, and most far-seeing, statesmen in the land, acting as chairman, spoke as follows:

"Before its adjournment the late Commercial Convention at Louisville deputed to the committee that I have the honor to represent, the high and delicate responsibility of expressing to your Excellency, sentiments of gratitude and reciprocation of hearty good will for the view communicated in your dispatch for the success of the great objects for which the convention convened. Originally called to discuss the exclusive interests of the Southern States, the theater of its usefulness was subsequently enlarged until it embraced the material prosperity of every section of our extended country. Delegates were in attendance from Vermont and Texas, as also from Georgia and Minnesota. Thus national in its character, it was pleasant beyond expression to receive encouragement at the hands of the national Executive. Its deliberations were confined mainly to the great questions of finance, taxation, immigration, international improvements, transportation, and necessary measures, by which the industrial and great natural resources of the South could be brought in harmony with the new era of prosperity upon which the republic has entered. One sentiment animated the entire convention, namely: To stand by the plighted faith of the nation in the full payment of its public securities, as stipulated when they were created, and, forgetting all differences in the past, the desire was universal that all sectional interests should be ignored, and that the citizens of the United States should hereafter be a homogeneous nation, one entire, united and indivisible. In conclusion, we desire to congratulate your Excellency on the success which has thus marked your administration.—Enough has transpired to demonstrate that before the expiration of your second term the public debt may be more than half extinguished, and that American securities will command a premium in every part of the inhabitable globe."

President Grant, in reply, said he was "much gratified to receive such a delegation, representing not only the great commercial interests of the nation, but, also, the new condition of affairs. The good fellowship which ought to unite a common brotherhood, and which was so happily inaugurated and invigorated at Louisville, he hoped would extend and permeate throughout the entire Union, until every vestage of bitterness or unkindliness should be forever eradicated. He believed that with in a year or two the South would be far richer and far more prosperous than ever she was before, and the people have it within their own power, by judicious policy and wise acts, to advance their own interests and those of the entire country with marvelous rapidity. As to his second term, he could assure General Walbridge he felt now very much as he did at West Point in his cadet days, when he counted every month with eagerness to get out of his position. He had not sought his present position, as everybody knew.

Hon. H. W. Hilliard, of Georgia, was glad to have the opportunity of saying to the President that he concurred in the cordial appreciation which all parties must give the sentiments just expressed by him.

President Grant is chary of speech making, but when he does speak it is like a charge of his invincible army, and he carries the enemies' works.—The broad, generous, national sentiments expressed in the above speech will give confidence to the entire country, for the people know that when the President speaks he speaks from the heart. We trust that political asperities will give place to "the good fellowship which ought to unite a common brotherhood;" and, while insisting that the laws of the Republic shall be enforced, and that the saviors of the nation shall be always raised above its would-be destroyers, we hope the spirit which would trample men in the dust of degradation forever is dying out, and that the people begin to see that a higher power than human power ruled the destinies of this Republic for the last eight years, and that men were but instruments in the hands of the higher power to lead the land to perfect liberty, through the "red sea" of rebellion. We believe with General Walbridge that before the expiration of President Grant's second term the nation will be on a firmer and grander basis than ever before. It is needless for the President to assure the people of his anxiety to retire from the high position he occupies, for the people feel that they sought him for the position. His great war record was glory enough for the man, and not even the Presidency can add any honor to that.—Yet the people, with their aggregated wisdom, which is inspiration, felt that he who guided the nation through the dark days of the rebellion was fittest to lead them to perfect peace through the unsteady years of the nation's recovery. It will require eight years at the helm, and General Walbridge is but the voice of the people in speaking of the "second term." Neither the flippant raillery of petty scribblers nor the more dangerous plottings of heartless politicians can shake the faith of the people in Grant as long as he is true to his own great life, and nothing but death can prevent him from occupying the presidential chair for the second time.

THE COVODE FOSTER CASE.—A Washington dispatch says that Hon. John Covode has proved before the House Election Committee over two hundred fraudulent votes cast for Foster in the Twenty first Congressional district. He also, the dispatch states, shows such frauds by the Democratic election officers as will throw out two whole polls and give him a majority of about five hundred. As Foster only claimed to be elected by about forty or fifty majority, Covode, if the evidence he produces is satisfactory to the House, must get his seat.

Gen. Beaver's Speech.

The Y. M. C. A., met in Williamsport on the 7th, 8th and 9th inst. Gen. Beaver was one of the delegates from this place. We copy the following extract from a speech delivered by the General before the Association from the West Branch Bulletin:

GEN. BEAVER'S SPEECH.

MR. PRESIDENT: I don't feel like talking. I feel humble. I have come up to this mount of privilege. I feel as if I ought to have been here long ago. Is it true that action and reaction are equal in opposite directions? If so, let us tremble. Is it true that we are to go down from here into the depths? It need not be so. Personal Consecration—what is it? "But thou when thou prayest, enter into thy closet." There is where it begins.—That is what has made this Convention a success; there is no doubt of it. There need be no reaction if we keep up our closet prayers, our trust and confidence in Jesus. My heart's desire and prayer to God is that young men may be saved. Let every young man here consecrate himself, body, soul and purse to Jesus. If we would multiply agencies for good, and rest them all on the foundations I have read of. Let us do it. When we see what men can do, we wonder that we have not done it. How little do we do; how little do we give. Is that the way to do God's work? We can not do anything without money; money is the great lever. The Church calls the Young Men's Christian Association,—calls on the world—to give money. But, after all, the power is in personal influence, through personal contact. There is no difficulty in a majority of cases; we will be met half way. I believe we can operate most and best by that means. Are we consecrated to the service of Christ? If we have'nt isn't it time? Years are going. If the heathen emperor should say he had lost a day, what should we say who are losing our lives? O that we would all, with new zeal, go home and pray God to give us grace to work for him as we have never done before.

At the close of General Beaver's address, the meeting passed a few minutes in silent prayer, followed by Rev. Mr. Niles, of York, in an audible prayer, after which the hymn, was sung.

"Come humble sinner, in whose breast,"

THE West Chester Village Record adverts to certain criticisms upon the late Attorney General, and comes to a very sensible conclusion, thus:

If this allegation be correct, then it was full time Mr. Brewster had notice to quit, and another who would attend personally to the interests of the Commonwealth, appointed in his place.—All the direct reasons for the change have not been given, and perhaps it is best for the reputation of the officer that they are not. We are satisfied that Governor Geary had good cause for the movement, or it would not have been made. The charge that the change was brought about by certain politicians is not to be relied on by any means, and those who make it do not understand the matter as thoroughly as their loud talking and blustering would lead the public to believe. Mr. Brewster had made himself objectionable to the head of the State administration as one of its officers, and the time for his removal had arrived, and he was dismissed.—This is the whole story, as briefly as it can be told.

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

SAVE MONEY.—If you want posters, circulars, bill heads, cards, paper-books, first-class job work, plain or fancy, call at the REPUBLICAN office. All work done at Philadelphia prices.

Notice is given of a Thanksgiving Service, for the Episcopal congregation, on Thursday morn. next, at 10 o'clock, in the German Reformed church.

HARD TO BEAT.—Our old friend, A. Sussman, has received a large supply of new goods, and he is hard to beat in selling cheap.

JEWELRY.—Jno. H Hahn is doing a splendid business at his clock, watch and jewelry store, on Spring street If the ladies of Centre county wish to purchase genuine jewelry, they should give Mr. Hahn a call.

CALL AND SEE.—Every body should call and see Loeb, May & Loeb in their beautiful new store. They re opened on the 18th inst., according to promise.—Their stock of goods cannot be surpassed, while their room is the best lighted, and therefore, the most cheerful in town.

MILESBURG.—J. B. Hahn, one of Milesburg's enterprising merchants, has adopted the cash system, and is selling goods exceedingly low. Prints he sells at from 6 to 12½ cts. Muslins, 10 to 18 cts.; the best Rio coffee, 25cts. per lb., and syrups from 60cts. to $1 25 per gallon. This sounds like old times and old prices.

NEW EATING HOUSE.—Messrs. Downing & Yoager, who were thrown out of business by J B. Butts selling his splendid new building to Loeb, May & Loeb, have repaired and refitted the room formerly occupied by them just opposite Keller & Musser's store, on Bishop St., and are now prepared to supply their many friends and old customers with the best of oysters, and everything else usually kept in a first class restaurant.—They are both clever men, and fully understand their business.

TURNIPS.—We were presented, by Jno S. Foster, of Harris tp., with nearly a bushel of the largest and finest turnips we have ever seen. We regret that we did not weigh some of the largest, as we feel confidant that quite a number of them would have weighed fully six pounds each, and thus we could have silenced the boasting of the Watchman in regard to its 5lb turnip

Mr. Foster is a scientific farmer, and one of the most successful cultivators in the county.

JOURNALISTIC.—The Phil'a Daily Press is, in our opinion, one of the best daily papers published in Pennsylvania and should be in the hands of every business man and prosperous farmer and mechanic in Centre county It contains the latest and most reliable home and foreign news, while, in its political department, it deals terrible blows to the secession Democracy, and fearlessly and truthfully exposes the hypocrisy, wickedness and corruption of that party. Its daily visits to our sanctum affords us great pleasure.

FRUIT.—Keep at a uniform and low temperature. Do not close the fruit cellar until the cold without makes it necessary, to prevent freezing. Where there is much fruit, the changes which accompany ripening generate an appreciable amount of heat, and the cellar or fruit room will require opening frequently. The cooler the fruit can be kept, the more will its ripening be retarded. By proper management, pears which, in a warm room, would come into eating in December, may be kept until February.

THE RACES.—As we did not visit the fair grounds on Thursday last, to witness the races, we are not prepared to report. We understand, from reliable authority, that those who were present enjoyed themselves amazingly. People will have their fun and frolic, and we have no particular objections, but if the "fast hosses" could speak the English language, we have no doubt they would say to all concerned, "that their time might be better employed, and what was pleasure to owners and spectators, was, at the same time, punishment to the horses, and certain and premature death."

LIGGET'S MILL.—Our friend, Benjamin Ligget, of Liberty tp., continues to do a good business at his new mill, in said township. Mr Liggett is an extensive dealer in grain of all kinds, and the flour manufactured at his mill has gained a first rate reputation. We understand that Mr. Liggett purchases nearly all the wheat raised in that part of the county. There should be a new road made through the gap, leading from Mr. Daniel Kunes' new Hotel, at the Depot, into Nittany Valley. This road would not only benefit Mr. Ligget, but enhance the value of property in both valleys.

OUR HOPE.—It is our sincere hope that the story in regard to the Messrs. Valentine & Co., closing their works is without foundation. This firm is abundantly able to carry on their extensive iron manufactories with the tariff rates remaining as they are, but men, generally, we all know, will not pursue a business or a calling for any length of time, in which they are constantly sinking money. We hope all our manufacturers will nerve their arms, and call into not exercise all their energy, and keep gs moving, and continue to give em ent to the people until Congress , and gives us the necessary legis to make money plenty, the coun osperous, and thrs

"Drive dull care away."

BOOTS & SHOES.—Pat McAffrey & Co. have determined not to be undersold by any one in the place. They have just received a large stock from the city, and are constantly manufacturing to order. Give this house a call.

COAL.—Shortlidge & Co. are doing all in their power to supply the people of town and country with good coal, and at the lowest possible rates. They have a first-rate coal yard, under cover, where the coal is always dry. On account of strikes among the miners, and the difficulty to procure cars for transportation of coal, nothing but the energy of Col Shortlidge could have succeeded in obtaining at the mines and shipping sufficient coal to this place to supply the demand. Such energy should be rewarded.

BISHOP STREET.—The new building on the corner of Bishop and Allegheny streets, is about completed. It is painted white, and is quite an ornament to the corner. Edward Brown, Proprietor, occupies one room as a Grocery and Provision store. Wm Brown, of "Our House" notoriety, occupies one room, and will continue to do so until the Hotel, recently damaged by fire, is repaired. The carpenters are busily at work repairing the burned building. Edward Brown deserves great credit for his energy; but we are really sorry that he did not replace the old buildings with a fine brick block. This, however, is his business; not ours.

WOOLLEN FACTORY.—We understand that C. & J. Houser are doing a splendid business at their Woollen Factory, in Harris tp., near the Houserville P O These gentlemen manufacture the best of casinetts, satinetts, flannels, cloth, blankets, &c., which they sell at reasonable prices, while they pay the highest market price for wool. They deserve success; and we are glad to hear that they are succeeding admirably.

They have, in their employ, quite a number of first class workmen, intelligent, good citizens, the best evidence of which is, they all, proprietors and workmen, subscribe, pay for, and read the REPUBLICAN. Long may they wave and weave, and work, and prosper.

BALLOU'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE.—We are in receipt of this marvellously cheap and handsome Magazine for December. Its table of contents is varied and charming, embracing the usual fine variety of serials, sketches, stories, poems and attractive engravings. The publishers announce in the prospectus for the coming year, a serial story for adults, by the popular Magazine writer, James Franklin Fitts, and a juvenile serial by the young people's favorite, Horatio Alger, Jr. The price of this periodical is a marvel to everybody—a hundred page, first-class illustrated Magazine for fifteen cents, or $1 50 per year is indeed wonderfully cheap. Elliott, Thomas & Talbot, Publishers, Boston, Mass

UNIONVILLE ROBBERY.—In a communication from Unionville, which appeared in our last week's issue, setting forth the particulars of the robbery of the safe at that place, it was stated that the thief was supposed to be "one Hugh Riddle, of Williamsport." This statement, it appears, does Hugh a great injustice, as we are assured, by reliable authority, that he was not in Unionville on that day, but was in the neighborhood of Pleasant Gap, and had been for several days previous. It looks as if some scoundral was playing the antics of the "light finger gentry" on Hugh's credit. No man should be falsely condemned. The most unfortunate of our fellow creatures should be mercifully and justly dealt with. Fiat justitia ruat cœlum.

SCARCE.—Locals are about as scarce this week as hen's teeth The railroad has not killed any person for a long time—two or three weeks; nobody murdered; no arms or legs broken; no person, large or small, scalded or burned; no runaway matches; no runaway horses, or broken buggies to report; if any accidents do happen in the country, the inhabitants are too lazy, or careless, to report them to us. No fire in Bellefonte for nearly two weeks, and those who were recently burned out, or the most of them, have received the amount for which they were insured, from the various insurance companies. Every person should be insured in some good company We have not seen any pork, as yet, coming into town, consequently, can't say what is the price of pork. Our friend, B. V. Black, continues to supply our people and market with first rate beef—nice, and tender, and fat. Black knows how to do it.—The Garman Hotel is, as usual, crowded with boarders and the table with turkies, chickens, vegetables and meats of every variety, and mince pies Oh, well! We don't board there, but our compositors do. Ask them. No locals! Where are our reporters? We have written so much about Bellefonte its churches, its superior Academy and its accomplished Principal, Prof. J P. Hughes; our Glass Works; our Foundries; our Furnaces; and we have puffed our merchants and business men so much that we are almost afraid to meet them anymore, fearful lest they might give us money, or present us with a nice overcoat, or do some other nice and genteel thing We say we are almost ashamed to write about any of these things any more; but we must have locals. If our readers think they can beat us editing a paper, or gathering up the local news of the county, just come on and try your hand. Step into our Sanctum, gentlemen; take our place one week; just one week. Suffer the indignities, stand the duns, listen to every one that demands that little puff you promised; want bread, and meat and butter, and clothes, and no money to buy any or either of these things. One week, we imagine, would answer. One week would be as long as any of you would wish to play Editor. We are right sure you would return home a wiser, and more contented, if not a better man; and, if you had not paid for the REPUBLICAN in advance, you would not sleep nor eat until you had paid up all arrearages on the printer's books.

BRISK.—Business is very brisk at the store of Keller & Musser since they received their new goods.

LECTURES.—Jas C. Boyce, Esq. will deliver a Temperance Lecture in Milesburg, on Thursday evening, and in Howard on Friday evening, and at Centre Furnace, Harris tp, on Saturday evening, the 20th inst.

GONE WEST.—Mr Jno. Longwell, aged 73 years, and his amiable wife, aged 67 years, took the cars at the depot, at this place, yesterday, for the West Although 73 years of age, Mr. Longwell was never inside a railroad car before. We wish this old couple a safe journey, and hope they may find their daughters prosperous, happy and contented.

A NOVEL PROPOSITION.—Dr. Sage has discovered a sure and speedy remedy for Catarrh, and the proprietor offers $500 for a case of that loathsome disease that he cannot cure. It cures catarrh in all its stages, forms and varieties, with unerring certainty If your Druggist does not keep this Remedy take no other but enclose sixty cents to the proprietor, R. V PIERCE M D, Buffalo, N. Y., and the Remedy will reach you by return mail For sale by most Druggists every where.

GRAND OPENING.—We were invited on last Thursday night, to take supper at the new restaurant, near the big spring, opened on that day by Geo F. Ronion. All the Editors in town were invited—All were present but one. It did us good to see them. Brainard alias McCracken, Meek and Fury. Oh, how they did eat! Sick next morning, we presume. The supper was a grand affair.

This restaurant will be conducted on strictly temperance principles. It is in the same building with Mr. Ronion's bowling alley

Just adjoining the restaurant, and under the same roof, is the excellent gymnasium, erected by Dr. R. D. Tipple.—It is, undoubtedly, the best institution of the kind, in the State, outside of Phil'a We will have more to say anon.

For the Republican.

Died of consumption, in the Eastern Penitentiary in Phil'a, on Sunday morning, Oct 24 1869, James Alexander Kunes, aged about 24 years.

A short history of this unfortunate young man may prove a warning to others He was born of very respectable parentage, in Liberty township, Centre county, where the family still reside.

This son, who was about 18 years of age when the war broke out, enlisted in the old 11th Pa. Vol's, and served with that regiment until the winter of 63 64 when he obtained a furlough to visit his home in Eagleville; but through the counsel of some not favorable to the prosecution of the war was induced to desert, and lead a life of rambling and hiding from the officers in his pursuit

Those persons who led a soldier boy from the line of his duty, and instilled into his mind a law-defying spirit, should ever be held responsible for the suffering he brought upon his friends and relatives in after years.

But there was still a patriotic spirit left within his breast; for, some months afterwards, he voluntarily went back to his regiment; was forgiven by his officers, and restored to a place in his company, where he served faithfully, in all its battles, to the end of the war, and was honorably discharged. He then returned home; got with some bad associates who seemed to have a law-defying spirit, until, with two others, he was convicted of high-way robbery, in Lock Haven, Clinton county, at the May Term, 1866, and sentenced to four years confinement in the Eastern Penitentiary.—His confinement was too much for him. His health failed, and he died, as above stated Notwithstanding, his kind friends brought his remains to Eagleville, in this county, on Wednesday, Oct. 27th, where they were buried in the family grave-yard. "Truly the way of the transgressor is hard." SOLDIER

MILESBURG, Nov. 16, 1869

MESSRS. EDITORS:—In this age of steam and electricity, things move with more than usual velocity Recently the quiet of Milesburg was disturbed by the most heinous yells, such as caused every peaceable, law-abiding citizen to try and ascertain the cause A citizen of the town, of doubtful reputation, was made the object of the frenzied impetuosity of some of the fast youths of this town.—The residence of the doubtful character was named Fort Mackey. Repeated attacks had been made by the fast youths to take the fort, and as often were they repulsed, until the assailants, feeling that others were tresspassing on their claims to the above named fort, prepared for a desperate charge. The charge is made. The pickets, under command of Capt Neveratime, were driven in, and a desperate battle ensued, in which little harm was done, save the shedding of some scalding tears The fort was demolished; (the furniture having been removed) the work of destruction went on, until the house was literally torn down—the citizens and police being the spectators, giving countenance and encouragement to mob-law the whole scene being one, such as every good citizen should discountenance Law and order are praiseworthy, but mob law, riot and confusion are detestable. Encourage these things, and the time will come when those who participate in these disgraceful outrages will take the liberty to make attacks on your churches, and when our respectable females will not be safe, unattended, on our streets How long will it be until this state of things shall no longer be allowed to exist in our midst, and law and order prevail. Your correspondent does not attempt to justify the keeping of disreputable houses, or encourage any thing of the kind in our midst, but there are legitimate remedies for those who violate law by keeping a disreputable house, and by that law they should be condemned and punished.

DEATH OF MRS. MARIA W. D COBURN.—We are again called upon to chronicle the loss of another of our oldest and most esteemed inhabitants, in the death of Mrs. Maria W. D. Coburn, which occurred at her residence, in this village, on the 22d day of October, A. D, 1869, in the 80th year of her age.

The deceased was the only daughter of Captain Benjamin Case, of Revolutionary memory, and Mary Thorn, his wife, and the sister of the late Hon. Benjamin T. Case, deceased, of Montrose, Pa., and was born at Newburgh, in this State, where her parents then resided, on the 14th day of January, A D., 1790.

In the year 1808, her father, with his family, removed from Newburgh, into Northern Pennsylvania, where he, as one of the pioneers of this then remote section, pitched his tent, and aided in the work of civilization and progress, and where, after a life of honor and usefulness, he was gathered to his fathers.

On the 26th day of February, A. D., 1813, the subject of this brief memoir was married to Dr. Andrew Coburn, M. D., of Warrenham, Pa., where she continued to reside until the death of her husband, which occurred in the year 1839. In the Fall of 1840, she removed with her children, to this village, which she ever after made her home.

Mrs Coburn, from her residence among us, and in our vicinity, for the last fifty years, and from her connection by marriage with some of our oldest and most respectable families, was very estimably and widely known throughout our own, and the neighboring communities, as a lady of far more than ordinary intelligence, activity and character To become acquainted with her, was to learn that her's was an acute, an observant and a cultivated mind; and that the discharge of her household duties, in which she had no superior, in no wise interfered with her pursuit of those graces and excellencies which adorn the intellect. To become intimately associated with her, was to discover that, to the adornment of a cultivated intellect was added that higher and better ornament of a warm and generous heart, around which all that is admirable in amiability, tender in affection, and gentle in charity, clustered.

In those high and holy offices and duties, the performance of which is the peculiar and heaven-favored function of woman—the exercise of neighborly kindness, ministrations to the needy and distressed, the sweet solicitudes of wife and mother, the care and consolation of those in sorrow, adversity and bereavement—she was as many a grestful heart can bear witness, within the circle of her acquaintance, a "ministering angel" indeed; ever patient, and never wearied in well doing.

For many years she had been an earnest and consistent member of the First Presbyterian Church of this place; and, in all that pertained to a christian life and conduct, she presented an example of faithful and humble following of her Savior, which, in its effect was far more efficient for good upon others, than precepts upon the lips of teachers, "charm they never so wisely;" for, like him of old, she was persuaded "that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord;" and in such a blessed persuasion, she followed the injunction of the Apostle, and gave all diligence to add to her "faith, virtue; and to virtue, knowledge; and to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience, and to patience, godliness, and to godliness kindness; and to kindness, charity!" And when, at last, like a sheaf in the fulness of autumn, she was borne away to the garners of heaven—Death had, indeed, no sting—the Grave no victory!

And yet, over all that was best and most becoming in her character, so constantly was borne the mantle of modesty that it may be truly said of her that "all her excellencies stood in her so silently, as if they had stolen upon her without her knowledge"

The obsequies of the deceased were largely attended at her late residence in this village, on Sunday last, where appropriate funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. C. Beecher, of our place assisted by the Rev Mr. Hawley, of Waterville, N. Y., when her remains were accompanied to their resting place by a large cortege of relatives and friends, and deposited in Evergreen Cemetery

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; even so saith the Spirit; for they rest from their labors!"

PARENTS, no skill or foresight could have turned you away, if you knew that worthless and spilt leather shoe you bought for your interesting and darling child was the sole cause of its sickness and untimely death. You would not now have the pain and sorrow to endure, if you would have had the power to foresee the inevitable result. Profit by this knowledge. Save doctor bills. Go to Burnside & Thomas and get a good article

Ladies, if you know what kind of skins your beautiful furs are made of it would stir your hearts with a strange and contemptible disgust. You may well desire the skill and fore knowledge of practical men If you know, you might have purchased a good article at the establishe house of Burnside & Thomas

If you know the dirty ship-bread trash and dirt you are eating in your spices, you would go at once and make your purchases of a pure, unadulte rated article, at the well known house of Burnside & Thomas. Ah! if you knew, this is one of the causes of your sickness

Farmers if you knew the intrinsic value of horse blankets to prevent coughs, colds and sickness to your valuable horses, you would go at once to Burnside & Thomas. †

LUCAS—ORNDORFF—On the 9th inst., at the residence of Mr Jacob Moy, by the Rev. J. K. Willett, Wm. P. Lucas, Esq., of Howard Borough, and Miss Lizzie Orndorff, of Marion tp., Centre county, Pa.

To the above happy couple, we extend our hearty congratulations, and wish that their journey through life may be free from every care; that they may labor earnestly for each others good, live long in the land, and after countless wrinkles, silver hairs and honors, together cross over that "Beautiful River" to the "Land of Delight."

NOLL—HARKINS—on the 7th inst., by Henry Eckenroth, Esq., Wm. C. Noll, of Spring twp., and Miss Mary A. Harkins, of Centre Hall.

Died.

CALDWELL—On the 4th inst., in this borough, Thomas Caldwell, Esq., aged 67 years, 4 months, and two days.

Thomas Caldwell was an old and much respected citizen of this county, where he resided for a number of years previous to his death. He was at one time a candidate for sheriff of he county, and came within twenty-three votes of being elected. He was elected Justice of the Peace by the people of the B rough, which office he held for two terms, filling the office with entire satisfaction to those who had business with him. He was a man of remarkably strong common sense, and seemed to grasp the right side of the most intricate question without any difficulty.

Thomas Caldwell is dead, and in his death another of the old citizens of this place has passed away. He was a good and true friend and a kind and affectionate father. K.

Farm Yard Song.

Over the hill the farm boy goes,
His shadow lengthens along the land,
A giant staff in a giant hand;
In the poplar tree, above the spring,
The Katydid begins to sing:
The early dews are falling,
Into the stone-heap darts the mink;
The swallows skim the river brink;
And home to the woodland flies the crows,
When over the hill the farm boy goes,
Cheerily calling,
"Co' boss! co' boss! co'! co'! co'!"
Father, father, over the hill,
Faintly calling, calling still,
"Co' boss! co' boss! co'! co'!"

Into the yard the farmer goes,
With greatful heart at the close of day;
Harness and chains are hung away;
In the wagon shed stand yoke and plow;
The straw's in the stack, the hay in the mew,
The cooling dews are falling;
The friendly sheep his welcome bleat,
The pigs come grunting to his feet,
The whinnying mare her master knows,
When into the yard the farmer goes,
His cattle calling,
"Co' boss! co', boss! co'! co'! co'!"
While still the cow boy, far away,
Goes seeking those that have gone astray,
"Co,' boss! co' boss! co'! co'!"

Now to her task the milkmaid goes,
The cattle come crowding through the gate,
Lowing, pushing, little and great;
About the trough by the farm-yard pump,
The frolicksome yearlings frisk and jump,
While the pleasant dews are falling;
The new mileh heifer is quisk and shy,
But the old cow waits with tranquil eye;
And the white stream into the bright pail flows,
When to her task the milkmaid goes,
Soothingly calling—
"So, boss! so, boss! so! so! so!"
The cheerful milkmaid takes her stool,
And sits and milks in the twilight cool,
Saying "So! so, boss! so, so!"

To supper at last the farmer goes,
The apples are pared, the paper read,
The stories are told, then all to bed,
Without the, crickets' ceaseless song
Make shrill the silence all night long;
The heavy dews are falling.
The housewife's hand has turned the lock
Drowsily ticks the kitchen clock;
The household sinks to deep repose,
But still in sleep the farm boy goes,
Singing, calling—
"Co', boss! co', boss! co', co', co'!"
And oft the milkmaid, in her dreams,
Drums on the pail with the flashing streams,
Murmuring "So, boss! so!"

Fattening Hogs—The Process of Fattening Increased by Making Them Greater Eaters.

When hogs are fairly on their way of being fattened, receiving several times a day all the food they can eat, the more they can be made to eat the faster they will fatten, and the more profit the farmer will derive from the food given them and consumed.

There was once a strife in a certain neighborhood of good farmers as to who should annually have the fattest hog. Each one took a pig of the same litter, so that they all started alike.—But somehow it turned out that one certain man always came out ahead. This constant victory excited wonder and curiosity. But at last the secret leaked out. This farmer was in the habit of giving his pig all it could eat and then turning into his pen another hungry pig, which of course would commence eating vociferously, which, would arouse into action the sluggish appetite of the other pig, and he would turn in, eating with eagerness, and recolutely competing with the hungry pig. By this means, the hog that was being fattenedwas stuffed several times a day to repletion.

Now, we have found by experience that there is another way in which a hog can be induced to eat much more than he otherwise would, and consequently be made to lay on fat very fast. Let a hog be fed, for instance, all he can eat of corn in the ear.—Then fill his trough half full of clean water, and strew into it three or four quarts of shelled corn, and it will be found that the hog's appetite will come to him again, and this additional amount of food will also be consumed.

It is generally the case that those hogs that do not take on fat very rapidly are poor eaters, and it is an object of importance, worthy of the farmer's attention, to make them full eaters. Every fattening hog, which is really thriving satisfactorily, will always denote that by his peculiar snuffling and difficult breathing just after eating all he will eat. And perhaps it will be found that even scrub hogs, about which so much complaint is made for their shyness in taking fat, can be made to give much more satisfaction if some more effectual means are taken to make them greater eaters.

WHAT TO DO WITH POTATOES.—A correspondent of the Western (Chicago) Rural says he "didn't like the idea of hauling potatoes fifteen miles to market and selling them for twenty-five cts., a bushel," so he commenced feeding them to his hogs, and found that when boiled, mashed and mixed in the proportion of three bushels of potatoes and one of bran, that the hogs, not only ate it ravishly but fatted upon it better than uponcorn alone. He added, however, a few ears of corn. This plan of feeding is of long standing in this region, and has been pursued with uniform success, with, however, this difference the proportion of corn is larger. Hogs are very fond of boiled potatoes, and broken and mixed with half the quantity of bran double the quantity of corn, as suggested by the correspondent aforesaid, will fatten upon it better perhaps than any other food.

Hints for Housekeepers.

Mr. Roger Smith, an English writer, in the course of a lengthy paper on "The duties of an Architect," gives the following as a few of the points to be thought of in the planning of a dwelling:

"The relative position of each room in connection with all the others; the aspect of the windows; the communications, such as the hall, the corridors and the staircase must be arranged for. Each room must be of the right size, shape and disposition. In every main living room the ordinary articles of furniture must be prepared for, and places assigned them, and the same in every bedroom large or small. The position of the window, door and fireplace in each room must be settled so as to avoid draughts, discomfort and smoky chimneys. Light must be secured for every hole and corner all over the house, and so much ventilation. The service from the kitchen must be so provided as to bring the provision into the dining-room readily, but to keep smells out. The duty of every servant all over the house must be understood, and all the endless appliances of a large house tho't of. There must be a place found for the range, and the hot-plate, and the jack and the dresser, and the closets, and the shelves of the kitchen. The shelves, sinks and plate-racks, the coppers and washing-boards, the vegetable bins and the water-supply of the scullery, must be all provided for.—Care must be taken of the winter cellar, beer-cellar, and (if present) the stores, the linen the china and the plate. Ovens, shelves, books, safes, plate-closets, linen-closets housemaid's closets, baths, hot water, cold water, cupboards, lifts, and all manner of appliances are to be thought of; rooms for the family and rooms for the guests; the nurseries, the upper-servants' rooms, the various services of butler, cook, housekeeper, footman, dairymaid stillroom maid, must all be thought of, all planned for; all must be brought compactly together, and each must be kept out of the other's way. While these matters are being disposed of, there are also many points in the structure that need attention in preparing working plans. Proper foundations must be provided for, and an equal distribution of the weights on the walls. The flues must be carried up into proper chimney stalks the construction of bresummers, girders, floors, partitions, roofs, etc, must be devised. The arrangement of the roofing, so as to be easily freed from snow, the mode of bringing away rain water, the drainage, the outfall or cesspool for the drains, the necessary precaution against damp, bad smells or tainted water, each and all of these come under review; not one of them can be left to chance any more than the putting together of the masonry or the brickwork, the thickness of walls, the quality of glass, or the weight of lead. All this time an entirely distinct set of considerations is also present to the architect's mind: his building is to please the eye as well as to accommodate the dwellers therein, and, whether there be the richest elaboration, or the most rigid simplicity, he will not have fulfilled his duty to his employer, or been loyal to the art, if he has not striven to render the effect of his work, especially the inside of his house, pleasing, harmonious and appropriate."

FALL PLANTING OF TREES.—A correspondent asks us at what time in the fall he should transplant trees. We answer, any time after the tree is done growing for the season—but the sooner the better The moment it can be seen from the leaves that the season's growth is over, the transplantation of trees should be attended to. By so doing the roots will have time to become established before severe weather sets in, and be ready to make an early healthy start when spring opens. Some of our leading horticulturists assert that the roots of trees grow all winter, except when the ground becomes deeply frozen; but whether this be so or not, transplanting as early in the autumn as circumstances will admit of, doubtless has its advantages.—Germantown Telegraph.

AFTER DINNER NAPS.—The Herald of Health says: "Many persons are in the habit of sleeping for half an hour or an hour immediately after dinner. This is a bad practice. Ten minutes sleep before dinner is worth more than an hour after. It rests and refreshes and prepares the system for vigorous digestion. If sleep is taken after dinner it should be in a sitting posture, as the horizontal position is unfavorable to healthful digestion.—Let those who need rest and sleep during the day take it before dinner instead of after, and they will soon find that they feel better, and that their digestion will be improved thereby."

HOW TO MAKE SHINGLES LAST.—Silas Brown says that twenty-five years ago, he dipped shingles in a large kettle of lime wash to which salt had been added, and the whole kept boiling. A few of the shingles were dipped in all over at a time, long enough to soak them well, and then thrown aside to dry. In a short time all the shingles were thus prepared. Although what are termed "sap shingles," they have lasted twenty-five years, "and may do so for years to come." Several experiments of a similar character have been made since, with very successful results.—Albany Cultivator.

These two lines which look so solemn, the devil put here to fill the column.

From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG

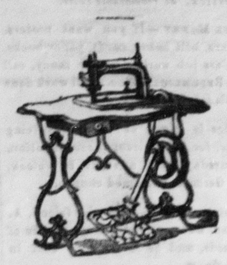
SEWING MACHINES.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE

OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.



In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly, and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at

SEWING MACHINE.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE.

Among sewing machines, those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company, rank with the highest. Their manufacturing machines, have long been known as the best for manufacturing purposes. But within the past few years, they have given special attention to the production of a destined to win much favor in the HOUSEHOLD.

FAMILY MACHINE,

The machine which they now offer is quiet light-running, simple, fast, noiseless. Its accessories for

HEMMING, BRAIDING, BINDING,
QUILTING, TUCKING, CORDING,
FELLING, GATHERING,

are simple and easily understood. Its delicate though enduring and tireless muscles of iron and steel, do all the work noiselessly, better, and few will deny, "Faster than hand can do it." They urge those wishing to purchase a machine, to examine all the other manufactures before buying, as it will, for itself, overcome all the objections to the other machines that can be brought against it. Machines on hand for sale and exhibition, together with a full and complete assortment of
